Important Information

Regarding Purchases Made After the First Canadian Port of Call for Guests Disembarking in Canada

Canadian residents should take note that while the shops onboard remain open for business for the duration of the cruise, purchases made on board the ship after the first Canadian port of call (Halifax - May 8, 2015), that will be brought home to Canada, will be subject to duty and taxes at your final Canadian port of disembarkation.

This regulation applies to Canadian residents disembarking the vessel in Canada or guests who are intending to leave goods in Canada, for example as gifts.

Any non-Canadian guests who have made purchases and who are not leaving them in Canada are not subject to duties and taxes.

Did you know?

Holland America Line spends millions of dollars every year to reduce fuel consumption by upgrading our systems. For example, most of our ships used to run two engines while docked in port to generate the needed electricity. Efficiencies we have achieved now enable us to meet our in port requirements with only one engine.

Know Your Uniforms

Identifying the shipboard personnel can be a confusing task. Are you still trying to decipher the stripes from one officer's uniform to the next? Who belongs to which department? Each department on the ship is distinguished by its own stripe pattern. The Captain wears a wide gold bar, two regular gold bars, plus a loop. The deck department including the Security Officer, has gold bars, one of which is looped. The IT Officer wears gold stripes which are lined with green, whereas the Safety, Environmental & Health Officer has gold stripes lined with blue. The engineering department is distinguished by all straight gold bars. The Chief Engineer has four gold bars, second engineers have three and so on down the line. The hotel department is recognizable by their straight gold stripes with white sandwiched between. The medical team also has straight gold bars with red filling. When in doubt, you can always ask. By following these simple guidelines you should be able to figure out who's who of shipboard personnel.
